Nehru Boots Menon As Defense Minister

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru, facing up to charges that V. K. Krishna Menon has bungled India's preparedness, ousted him as defense minister Wednesday night.

Nehru himself, almost 73, took over the key post with its urgent responsibility of staving off Red China's attacks on India's northern borders.

Though Menon's fall was cushioned by a new appointment as minister of defense production, the switch was an important victory for his critics at a time when the nation was bogged down in the crucial, undeclared war.

Almost simultaneously with the ouster, the United States announced it is airlifting weapons to India.

"We will be supplying types of equipment needed to meet the current Chinese Communist aggression—for example, light infantry weapons and ammunition, transport and communications equipment," a State Department spokesman said in Washington.

Delivery of the arms had been promised Monday by John Kenneth Galbraith, U.S. ambassador, in response to an appeal from Nehru.

Menon has fallen under increasing fire, in public demonstrations and among leaders of Nehru's Congress party, since the Red Chinese opened their offensive Oct. 20.

The Red Chinese have smashed through Indian forces, inadequately clothed and equipped, at 13 points along the northern border.

In the latest report on the border fighting, a Defense Ministry spokesman said Indian and Red Chinese forces exchanged fire at close quarters Tuesday at a key Himalayan pass leading to the most vulnerable invasion route to the plains of Assam State.

Menon, 65, has often shown friendship for the Red Chinese. He had turned to the Soviet Union for weapons and for what he had hoped would be a restraining influence on the Red Chinese. But the Soviet Union has endorsed the

U. S. Will Airlift Weapons To India

WASHINGTON (AP) — High priority U.S. light infantry weapons and other equipment will be sped by air to India this week to help Indian troops hold off massive Chinese Communist border attacks.

The State Department announced this Wednesday and defense authorities said big Air Force transport planes will start taking off on the mission Thursday or Friday from many points in the United States.

The first deliveries are expected to include M1 Garand semiautomatic rifles, light mortars, grenades, trucks, jeeps and radio communications gear.

Kennedy Pledge

The arms flow is in swift fulfillment of President Kennedy's pledge to give rapid and sympathetic consideration to an appeal from India's Prime Minister Nehru for military assistance to repel the invaders.

A State Department spokesman, in announcing the airlift, said it was prompted by a specific situation.

"That situation," said press officer Lincoln White, "is created by massive Chinese Communist aggression is a serious development and is so regarded by this government."

White also made clear that U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith, in response to questions, said in New Delhi there should be "no ambiguity" about the U.S. position.

"The McMahon line is accepted as the international border and is so regarded by modern usage. Accordingly we regard it as the northern border of India's north-east frontier area," he added

May Iron Out Issues:

Mikoyan Heads For Cuba Conferences With Castro

MOSCOW (AP)—First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, one-time fishing partner of Prime Minister Fidel Castro, left by air for Cuba early Thursday, Moscow radio reported.

The broadcast said the trip's purpose is to "exchange views on the international situation with the government of Cuba." This apparently meant quieting uneasiness in Havana over the Soviet decision to remove rocket bases.

Mikoyan and a party of 15 are expected to stop over in New York on the way.

In Washington, the State Department said Mikoyan had been granted permission for a one-day stopover in New York, is expected to arrive there Thursday afternoon and will leave for Havana on Friday.

In London, British officials said Mikoyan was quickly granted permission to land there. They said they welcomed his trip, believing it would help to seal Cuban compliance with the Soviet decision.

Mikoyan was expected by U.S. authorities in Washington to confer in New York with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, who took over as chief agent of the Kremlin at the United Nations when Premier Khrushchev decided to liquidate his Cuban rocket bases.

In Washington, officials said there had been no plans for Mikoyan to see President Kennedy or Secretary of State Dean Rusk on his stopover. Whether he might seek to confer with Kennedy or Rusk after the Cuban visit was not clear.

The sudden departure of a personality of such high level as Mikoyan gave indication of the extent of the importance being attached to the Cuban crisis.

Observers in Moscow speculated that the purposes of Mikoyan's visit to Havana would be these:

—Brief the disgruntled Cubans on Kremlin thinking both during the recent crisis and the current negotiations with the United States.

—Soothe Cuban apprehensions with promises of continued economic and military aid and the possibility of an increase in economic assistance.

—Iron out any possible Cuban roadblocks to a settlement, such as a refusal to permit U.N. inspection teams on Cuban soil.

—Reassert Soviet influence in Cuban affairs in the face of possible Red Chinese attempts to make capital of Cuban dissatisfaction with the Soviet handling of the crisis.

Mikoyan visited Cuba in February 1960 to sign a big trade deal in which the Soviet Union agreed to buy a fifth of Cuba's annual sugar crop. The visit was a forerunner to the re-establishment of diplomatic relations broken off long before Castro's revolution.

Mikoyan became one of Castro's favorites. He and the bearded Cuban leader went fishing together and Castro taught the Russian how to fish in the thickly reeded ponds of Cuba.

Missile Sites Being Dismantled

U Thant Given Assurance Of Completion By Friday

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Acting Secretary-General U Thant returned from his Cuban peace mission Thursday night and declared he was reliably informed all Soviet missiles would be dismantled by Friday and out of Cuba soon.

The secretary-general, however, apparently had failed in his efforts to get Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro to agree to any form of U.N. inspection to verify the removal of the missiles.

Thant's chartered plane touched down at New York's Idlewild Airport at 8:48 p.m. EST amid developments which indicated the Cuban crisis had taken a critical turn.

In his airport statement Thant made no mention of his apparent rebuff by Castro. He stressed the dismantling of the Soviet missile bases and plans for withdrawal of the missiles.

Announce Quarantine

Shortly before Thant's return, the White House announced that the naval arms quarantine of Cuba would be reinstated Thursday morning and that aerial surveillance of the Soviet missile sites in Cuba would start again.

In what seemed to be another emergency move, the Soviet Union sent Anastas I. Mikoyan, first Soviet deputy premier, on a hurried trip to Cuba via London and New York. He is due in Havana Friday.

Thant described his talks in Havana as "fruitful." He said there was agreement that the United Nations should continue its efforts to reach a peaceful settlement of the Cuban problem.

"Reliably Informed"

Then he asserted:

"During my stay in Havana, I was reliably informed that the dismantling of the missiles and installations was already in progress and that this process should be completed by Friday—that is the day after tomorrow."

"Thereafter will come the shipment and return to the Soviet Union, arrangements for which are understood to be in hand."

Thant declined to answer questions from newsmen.

Returning with the secretary-general from Havana were members of the U.N. Secretariat and military advisers who had intended to remain in Cuba as the nucleus of the proposed inspection team.

News that this group was coming back to New York was the first tipoff that Thant had run into a snag. There was no word of this in a U.N. communique issued at the end of Thant's second long talk with Castro, but it was regarded as significant that the communique made no mention of any agreement on inspection.

British officials in London saw Mikoyan's unexpected flying trip as an effort to get his friend Castro to comply with Premier Khrushchev's decision to pull Soviet missiles out of Cuba.

Inspection Teams

Moscow's dispatches indicated one purpose of Mikoyan's visit was to remove any possible Cuban roadblocks such as a refusal to permit admission of U.N. inspection teams.

In a related development at Washington President Kennedy called off his news conference scheduled for Thursday, awaiting what the White House called clarification of the Cuban situation.

The cancellation appeared to be a clear indication that a snag had developed in the plan to dismantle the Cuban bases under U.N. inspection.

A communique said further talks would be conducted in New York with representatives of the Cuban government in the search for a peaceful solution.

Thant himself insisted on his departure from Havana that two days of discussion with Castro had been "very useful."

But the Cuban press showed no sign of yielding and gave prominence to expressions of support from Red China, which espouses an uncompromising stand toward the West.

Advisers Return

Shortly after the acting U.N. Secretary-general wound up his talks with Castro the United Nations announced Thant was bringing back with him his entire contingent of U.N. advisers.

These included the military experts he planned to leave behind as a nucleus for a U.N. team that would verify removal of the bases.

Khrushchev had agreed to U.N. inspection but Thant has to get Castro's permission to move the necessary manpower and equipment into Cuba for that task.

Thant's plane took off from Havana at 4:57 p.m. and was expected to arrive at Idlewild Airport in New York around 8:45 p.m. EST.

On board were 18 U.N. advisers and experts who accompanied him Tuesday and five others who flew to the Cuban capital only Wednesday.

Meantime the U.S. naval arms blockade and the scanning of Cuba by U.S. planes remained suspended. The fleet was pulled into a more compact patrol area.

U.S. Awaits Report

The United States was hopeful of obtaining a report from Thant on his mission immediately upon his return.

Decision as to whether the United States would reimpose the naval arms blockade and air surveillance of Cuba would be affected by what Thant had to say, U.S. sources said.

Prior to the talks with Thant, Castro had demanded surrender by the United States of its naval base at Guantanamo, the lifting of U.S. trade restrictions against Cuba, cancellation of the air surveillance, a stop to raids by anti-Castro Cuban groups and an end to what Castro charges is U.S. subversive action against his regime.

MPs Raid 'Ole Miss' Dorm; Find Weapons

OFORD, Miss. (AP)—Military policemen, their bayonets fixed, threw a guard around a men's dormitory at the University of Mississippi on Wednesday night and searched rooms after someone tossed a cherry bomb out a window, slightly injuring a soldier.

The MPs hauled out a dismantled pistol, a dismantled M1 rifle and several tear gas grenades from the dormitory.

The dormitory, Lester Hall, is next door to Baxter Hall, where Negro James H. Meredith lives. The MPs came out with the weapons—as well as a five-gallon gasoline can and a large supply of fireworks—after 2½ hours of searching the more than 100 rooms of the dormitory.

They then boarded Army trucks and rolled away. Behind them, a small crowd of students in the darkness outside the dormitory broke up.

About 100 students gathered in front of the dormitory, standing face to face with the soldiers ringing the building. There were no signs of trouble. Within an hour the crowd dwindled to about 20 students.

At the time, Meredith was eating—in the company of a Justice Department official—without incident in the student cafeteria. He returned to his dormitory while the search was in progress, and entered without any reaction from the students milling around.

The crowd of students shouted taunts at the soldiers for a few moments.

John Doar, a Justice Department attorney, told newsmen that a cherry bomb thrown out a window had injured a soldier, sparking the search.

A cherry bomb, spherical and slightly larger than a marble, is a type of firecracker.

This was Meredith's 23rd day of classes at the university—a quiet day.

Keep Watchful Eye

But the Justice Department gave early indications it was keeping a wary eye out for Halloween trouble, fearful of a third straight day of demonstrations by students protesting the presence of Meredith, the university's first known Negro student.

Nicholas Katzenbach, deputy attorney general, flew in from Washington on Tuesday night and conferred Wednesday with university officials.

The Justice Department said he told them it was "their responsibility to maintain discipline among the students."

The arrival of Katzenbach, the No. 2 man in the Justice Department who headed federal forces during riots that killed two here a month ago, underscored the seriousness with which the government viewed the situation.

Curbing Cures

If the new regulations the Food and Drug Administration is about to put into effect had been around at the time, penicillin and sulfanilamide might never have gone on the market.

The new regulations would require that FDA endorse any new drug as safe and effective before it could be sold. Penicillin has killed a number of patients with peculiar allergies, and sulfanilamide can cause dangerous anemia. Yet, if these drugs had been stopped, untold thousands of men, women and children who are alive today would not be.

Irrational fears of drugs have been aroused in a public which remains cool as men are flung into orbit, as we peer over the edge of the brink of war, and as some hundreds of us each year die in traffic on the way to the drug store after cough drops.

Thalidomide is the bug-a-boo, and no one can depreciate the heartache that has been caused by this drug's strongly suspected side-effect of causing deformity in the offspring of women who take it during pregnancy.

Yet, the new regulations which might have blocked the whole family of modern wonder drugs would not have blocked the introduction of thalidomide. It took years for anyone to connect cause and effect.

Nor is thalidomide, itself, to be despised. For those who are not pregnant, it still possesses advantages over other available drugs. Dr. Louis C. Lasanga of Johns Hopkins University has pointed out that had she been given thalidomide instead of barbiturates, Marilyn Monroe probably would be alive today. You can't commit suicide with the new drug, which is a great advantage in treatment for emotionally disturbed patients.

These new regulations, it is pointed out, would place such restraints on publicity about drugs in the course of tests, that discussion at medical meetings might even be impossible. The maker couldn't supply the details.

There is virtual unanimity in the medical and pharmaceutical professions that at best the regulations would delay remedies which people suffered and died without them, and slow down the research for new cures.

The Useful And The Beautiful

Americans have not always had time for the arts.

There have been too many frontiers to push back, too many cities to build, too many medicines to invent.

When they have found the time, they have tended to classify the arts prejudicially as hobbies.

The artist, like the intellectual, has belonged to a world that did not quite count.

The important business of life has taken place in another world where he lacked real influence.

Many artists in studied alienation, many businessmen with slightly uneasy condescension have taken the split for granted.

Now the Ford Foundation has come along with $6,100,000 in grants to nine repertory theaters—and more to follow to other institutions of the creative and performing arts.

This is, in all respects, a pioneering act of major patronage for a society that has previously drawn so sharp a line between the useful and the beautiful.

Writ large in a language Americans are peculiarly gifted at reading, it says; Leaders of the world of money and power have recognized the world of the artist as equal, and, in fact, integrated with their own.

It says practical men have decided that drama, music, and painting are resources as essential to a civilization which wants to survive as are oil and iron ore.

By indirection it says, as dramatically as it has ever been said in America, that successful solutions to material problems would have no meaning in a spiritual vacuum.

Instead of the theater serving the tired businessman, the businessman is now serving the rather tired theater.

In this ironic reversal of roles, America, at last, may be on the way to becoming one world.

The Next Step

President Kennedy has established three facts:

1. The United States is mighty and ready and will fight if need be;

2. The United States will not trade under a muzzle;

3. The United States seeks peace and will negotiate with anybody who is sincerely desirous of peace.

What comes next?

There is no key in the correspondence between President Kennedy and Nikita Khrushchev to indicate what will happen next except that disarmament questions are left to the NATO powers and the Warsaw powers which could mean prolonged conversations. To me that clue means little more than the United States will not act alone and arbitrarily and will consult with its allies.

What about Castro? Is it possible to permit Fidel Castro to remain a nuisance in the Caribbean? Castro was ignored by both the United States and Soviet Russia. His name was not even mentioned. The United States acted as though Cuba were a possession of Soviet Russia; Khrushchev accepted the role of suzerain. Whether he consulted Castro at any point is not known. Essentially, the Cuban situation remains a Russo-American affair. But Castro is there.

The question arises in everyone's mind why Khrushchev should have reached a decision which includes an element of humiliation. Perhaps the answer can be found in President Kennedy's disinclination to make Cuba an issue for war or peace.

We chose Berlin. Khrushchev attempted to divert us from Berlin to Cuba and succeeded in forcing our hand.

We established the blockade around Cuba but also exposed our readiness to fight anywhere. We established that the "soft" period in our history is over. This applies to Berlin as it does to Cuba. Both President Kennedy and U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson emphasized the significance of Berlin. What is called "accommodation" is nonsense.

Khrushchev's defeat in Cuba strengthens our position among the NATO powers and gives courage to both West Germany and France concerning Berlin. Just as Mao Tse-tung tested our purpose and strength in the Korean War which we lost, so Khrushchev tested our purpose and strength in Cuba. There we won.

Khrushchev's position was a weak one. Mao Tse-tung's war on India has upset the Communist world. Whereas India is not a satellite of Soviet Russia, it has nevertheless through Krishna Menon, permitted itself to be closely related to Russia so that Nehru's neutralism has become an impediment for a decent settlement of world affairs. Now India is being attacked viciously by Red China and Khrushchev is in serious difficulties.

If he supports his ally, Red China, he must oppose his friends Nehru and Krishna Menon; if he supports India, he violates the union of Communist countries, including the Warsaw Pact. If he remains neutral, it amounts to indecisiveness and a violation of the Warsaw Pact. What will Tito do? What will the East Germans do? Khrushchev's power is based upon decisions but he can make no decision with regard to India.

At such a moment, the United States chooses to expose to the world the Cuban missile buildup and to take warlike measures. It was splendid timing for the United States but very bad for Khrushchev. If he pursued the war with the United States, unless it were settled in a day, Mao Tse-tung would move on Turkestan and Siberia, completing his effort to reach the Chienlung line. From this Khrushchev backed away. The combination of forces was too much. He undoubtedly felt that sound statesmanship required that he live another day.

But there is more to be said. The Revolution has beyond doubt achieved more in 45 years than Lenin or anyone else expected. An atomic war, whatever it did to the United States, would wipe out the fruits of the Revolution. It would throw Russia back to 1917 and its industrial potential would disappear.

It is doubtful if the Communist International, now held together by the Warsaw Pact, could survive a massive atomic attack. Surely, Tito would take Albania; Poland and Hungary would be in a state of revolution; East Germany could not contain its population; Red China would go off entirely on its own. Was Cuba worth the test of strength?

A month from now, it will probably be seen that Khrushchev has not lost prestige within Soviet Russia. There the people believe "let you and him fight, but keep the war away from us."

Orphan Of The Political Storm

The Pennsylvania Story

McSparran Effect On Campaign

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — There's a question and quizzical eye on the Pennsylvania governorship scene at the moment.

It hasn't been caused by developments on the Cuban front — which are generally regarded as somewhat too far-fetched and completely unrelated to the local issues which will determine the selection of Pennsylvania's next Governor.

Rather the questioning and quizzical eye is raised in the direction of one of these local developments: what effect will the campaigning efforts of former State Grange Master J. Collins McSparran have on the candidacy of Republican gubernatorial hopeful William W. Scranton?

Interestingly, the question is a gnawing one, not only insofar as Keystone State Republicans are concerned but also on the Democratic front.

It is a fact that Grangemen McSparran did and does have a following among Pennsylvania farmers — a following that in the spring primaries stood staunchly behind his unsuccessful bid for the GOP gubernatorial nod.

The fact that opposing Democrats recognized this has been amply attested to by the fact that there were those within the Democratic Party who approached him with the hopeful intent of having him swing to their side following his primary defeat — and of course pulling with him some of the support he generated in the spring.

To such "unofficial" entreaties the 48-year-old McSparran turned a deaf ear — in fact he turned a deaf ear to any such advances until the expiration of his term last week as State Grange Master.

Following that, his decision became quite clear: he would indeed work in the vineyard of GOP gubernatorial aspirant William Warren Scranton.

The question now: what does this mean in terms of productive results at the polls November 6?

Actually it could mean much insofar as Keystone State Gopsters are concerned.

In the first place, if the election next week is truly destined to be close — as most political old pros and the candidates themselves concede — the balance of a few votes one way or the other could spell the difference.

Mr. McSparran in losing his primary bid this past spring to Mr. Scranton, still managed to poll about one-third of the votes cast; slightly more than 200,000.

Granger McSparran had a somewhat odd following in the primary — comprising not only agricultural brethren but a host of others who saw eye to eye with some of his proposals (such as opposition to the currently controversial school reorganization act).

In addition he garnered somewhat surprising pledges and vows of support — should he win the primary — from a number of Democrats!

The question now devolves into one of: can this support evidenced so heartily in the spring in behalf of the McSparran candidacy be channeled, even in small part, to support of the Scranton candidacy?

It's the big question plaguing both Democrats and Republicans as they battle down to the wire. Since his departure last week as State Grange Master, "Ole Mac" as he is oftentimes known, has been hitting the campaign trail hard in the hustings, and will continue until the last dog has been hung November 6.

The Allen-Scott Report

President Pressured To Speak 'Non-Politically'

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington, November 1 — President Kennedy is under considerable pressure to make a nationwide televised "non-political" talk before election day.

Democratic leaders are vigorously urging this now that the war-threatening Cuban crisis appears headed for an amicable solution. While not advocating that the President make an outright plea for Democratic support, the party chiefs take the position it would be fit and proper for him to go on the air to stress on voters the importance of exercising their balloting rights.

In counseling such a personal appeal, the Democratic leaders are emphasizing two points:

First, a heavy vote usually favors their party, particularly in large urban centers; second, former President Eisenhower continued to campaign without let-up throughout the height of the Cuban crisis.

For that reason alone, the Democratic chiefs contend it would not be unseemly now for the President to make a "non-political" get-out-the-vote speech.

The President appears to be of a divided mind on this.

In one discussion, he seemed to be favorable to the proposal. But subsequently, he brushed it aside.

However, this idea was not entirely fruitless. White House insiders credit it with having influenced President's decision to take a televised press conference this week — his first in more than a month.

Inside G.O.P. Estimate — A confidential survey by the House Republican Campaign Committee estimates the party will gain a "minimum" of 13 to 15 seats in the next (88th) Congress. In addition to these "sure" gains, the detailed report also claims the G.O.P. has a 50-50 chance of capturing 12 other House seats from the Democrats.

House Republican Leader Charles Halleck, Ind., and Representative Robert Wilson, R-Calif., chairman of the Campaign Committee, are publicly predicting the unseating of 25 or more Democrats. But their unpublished survey is far more restrained in its forecast.

Also, the analysis warns that 9 G.O.P. seats are in danger. According to this backstage study, the Democrats have a better than 50-50 chance of winning them.

However, over-all the survey spells out good election news for the Republicans, with from 13 to 15 "sure" House gains and another 12 strong "possibles."

The "sure" gains are credited to the following states: Alaska 1; California 2; Connecticut 1; Delaware 1; Florida 1; Idaho 1; Indiana 1; Michigan 1; Missouri 1; Montana 1; Ohio 2; Utah 2.

The 12 "possibles" are listed in California, New York, Ohio and Utah.

Five of these "possibles" are credited to New York on the theory that Governor Nelson Rockefeller will be re-elected by upwards of 750,000. Should he triumph by a greater margin, the G.O.P. survey indicates an even larger congressional score.

The study found no certain Democratic gains in any state. But it lists 9 probabilities in the following: California 3; Connecticut 1; Illinois 1; North Carolina 1; Ohio 1; Oregon 1; Pennsylvania 1.

Present membership of the House is 261 Democrats; 187 Republicans.

Headache Boy — "Teddy" Kennedy, 30-year-old brother of the President who is running for senator in Massachusetts, is continuing to cause perturbations in Democratic circles.

Latest difficulty is whether the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee should or should not contribute to him. "Teddy", who is spending freely in his electioneering, hasn't asked for any money. But the Committee easily is pondering the question just the same.

Its policy, under Senator Vance Hartke, Ind., chairman, is to treat all candidates alike. In most other instances, Hartke is having no trouble determining whether Democratic senatorial standard-bearers should get some funds. They are insistently clamoring for help, Hartke's dilemma is meeting the demand.

But "Teddy" has sought nothing from the Campaign Committee. He has ignored it. That's all right with Hartke so long as there are no complaints after the election. That's what is bothering him and the other committee men.

Two Democrats have told the Committee they want no contributions — Senator Frank Lausche, O., who has always run strictly on his own, and Senator Warren Magnuson, Wash., whose friends raised more than $100,000 at several fund-raising dinners for his electioneering for a third term.

Whoever wins the Massachusetts senatorial race will take office immediately after the election instead of in January when the new Congress convenes. That is because the victor will be filling the last two years of the term for which President Kennedy was elected in 1958.

Political — Senator Thomas Kuchel, R-Calif., claims a unique distinction. He is the only one by that name ever elected to the Senate. In the past 50 years, there have been 115 Smiths, 96 Joneses, 47 Millers, 18 Bakers, and 14 Kennedys, but only one Kuchel. . . Democratic politicians while buoyantly confident they will retain control of both branches of Congress, admit privately the party will lose from 3 to 5 governors. Also, they concede there is little likelihood of their capturing a governorship from the Republicans.

General Lucius Clay, special adviser to the President on the explosive Berlin situation, is a leading member of a national committee boosting Representative Walter Judd, R-Minn., for re-election. Other members on this committee are Senator Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., retired Admiral Arthur Radford, former head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and General Albert Wedemeyer, strong supporter of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Senator Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., and other leading Democrats are vigorously campaigning for the late Representative Clem Miller, D-Calif., recently killed in a plane crash. Purpose of this electioneering is to force a special election in which a strong Democratic candidate can be entered. . . Carlton Adair, Republican candidate against Representative Walter Baring, D-Nev., is openly getting a lot of Democratic support because of Baring's persistent opposition to legislation favored by the President. Baring is very much in the doghouse with the administration, and his Republican opponent is making that a major campaign issue.

Gene Brown About Town

The Over-Heard Reporter: People are talking about the concern of many high schools and colleges on football injuries, caused by unnecessary roughness and the laxity of many officials to enforce rules.

People are talking about TV commercials which seem twice as long as the program (especially since a recent study indicates that 65 percent of the commercials are 15 seconds).

People are talking about the State of New Hampshire suing Huntley and Brinkley for alleging that the state's highway-building program is dishonest.

People are talking about the impact that the new Albee play "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" will be making upon this year's theatrical season.

People are talking and asking why any American or allied ship should be used in trade with Cuba.

People are also asking if raking leaves shouldn't be classified as "woman's work."

What worries this column is whether we'll have enough sports to fill all these new sports cars. Also worried if you get those girls with the sables that seem to be draped over the cars in the ads . . . in the factory price.

From the Buffalo News: This time of the year, the thought arises — isn't there a havenot nation someplace that could use a few tons of elm and maple leaves.

Dial O for Murder: In Milwaukee last Sunday night a filling station attendant, bound hands and feet by a robber, picked up a tire valve stem and dialed 9, got the operator who called the police. We are afraid to try this — would wind up with " . . . this is a recording."

Walter Lauds Demo Candidates

APPROXIMATELY 300 Democrats from Monroe, Carbon, and Pike Counties heard Rep. Francis E. Walter praise all the Democratic candidates last night at the Monroe County Democratic dinner in the East Stroudsburg Armory.

Walter, in addition to the candidates, cited The Daily Record for its endorsement of two democratic candidates and for its assistance to him in completing his most recent work in Congress.

He added, "I have worked for more than 25 years with Democrats in Congress, Harrisburg and the 15th congressional district to complete the Tock's Island project. I am proud of this accomplishment and I feel that the people of the district should be congratulated. Without their help down through the years this piece of legislation would not have been possible."

Walter continued, "When the project is complete, then and only then will the benefits come to light as they are at present too numerous to mention or list."

"This area is a resort area and with the completion of the dam this area will be one of the most beautiful and most heavily visited by tourists in our country," he added.

He asked himself the question, "Why do you seek re-election?" His answer was, "True I did announce that I was going to retire, but the late Sam Rayburn, Speaker of the House, called me and told me I owed it to the people of the district to run again. He (Rayburn) said you have gained seniority due to the peoples wishes to return you to congress and you are obligated to them."

Rep. Van D. Yetter also spoke.

OFF AND RUNNING are the children in Wyckoff's annual kiddy Halloween parade yesterday from A. B. Wyckoff's Store to Eighth St., Stroudsburg. The kids returned to the tearoom for lollipops.

Job Situation Is Improved

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's job situation improved moderately in October. It was enough to shove unemployment down to a three-year low and give President Kennedy's administration something to cheer about.

The Labor Department announced that employment rose seasonally by 225,000 to 68,893,000, a record for October. The jobless total declined by 218,000, more than expected, to 3,294,000. This was the lowest monthly unemployment figure since 1959.

These improvements brought the nation's idle rate, seasonally adjusted, down to 5.5 per cent of the work force. This is about where the rate has been for some time, except for a temporary rise to 5.8 per cent in August and September.

Storm Brews Over News Info

WASHINGTON (AP)—A written directive to the pentagon's military and civilian personnel to report to public information officials what they tell newsmen in interviews blew up a storm Wednesday.

The memorandum, addressed to Defense Department personnel, was issued by Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense in charge of public affairs.

Work on the Great Wall of China started in 221 B. C.

He announced that he would introduce legislation in the next session of the General Assembly to amend the school district reorganization law (Act 561).

He said that school administrators and school directors had requested certain changes in the act. Some of the changes are administrators' tenure, transportation, reimbursement guaranteed subsidies, uniform assessment, school board membership.

Yetter charged that his Republican opponent, Gerald Snyder, was "reckless" and "irresponsible" in his partisan attacks on Act 561. "He apparently does not understand the educational needs of Pennsylvania," Yetter said.

He continued, "My opponent's attack on this important school legislation would be funny if it were not so serious. He professes to be an authority on Pennsylvania school affairs while teaching in B-lvidere, N. J. He refers to Act 561 as House Bill 561."

"Act 561 is the result of Senate Bill 867, which was sponsored by three Republican senators and two Democratic senators. One of the senators was Raymond P. Shafer the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, Yetter concluded.

Carl Neihoff, Democratic candidate for state senator, spoke briefly saying he, "Wanted to be elected so that he could serve the people. The people being the voters, councils of the boroughs, school boards, and township supervisors."

He added, "I want to do something for the people over 65 years of age. I think it is most unfair to have these people losing their homes because of high taxes. It is my promise to you to introduce legislation to exempt these people from real estate taxes on the property in which they live."

Planning, Zoning Queries Answered

(Editor's Note: This is the second of three articles presented by the East Stroudsburg Planning Commission designed to inform the interested citizen of some of the more important features of the proposed zoning ordinance for the Borough of East Stroudsburg.)

Q. Who will benefit from the zoning ordinance?

A. Since the zoning ordinance is designed to promote orderly growth, every resident, property owner and non-property owner alike, will benefit from the protective measures of zoning. Orderly growth protects real estate values by preventing the establishment of nuisances.

Q. How many zones are there?

A. There are 10 zones, which include four residential zones, three commercial, two industrial and one special purpose zone.

Dilworth Hits At Scranton

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Richardson Dilworth Wednesday night accused his Republican opponent for governor, Rep. William Scranton, of being a product of backroom politics — holding secret meetings with various groups across Pennsylvania to assure them he does not mean his campaign statements.

Dilworth, during a sidewalk speech from his downtown campaign headquarters at noon, called two Republicans "bums." He went to a $100-a-plate Democratic Party dinner at Convention Hall Wednesday night.

Residential zones — R-1 for single family homes on minimum lot sizes of 12,500 square feet; R-2 for single family homes on minimum lot sizes of 9,375 square feet; R-3 for two-family homes on minimum lot sizes of 7,500 square feet; R-4 for multiple family homes on minimum lot sizes of 6,250 square feet.

Commercial

Commercial zones — C-1 neighborhood commercial; C-2 community commercial; C-3 heavy commercial.

Industrial zones — M-1 limited industrial; M-2 general industrial.

Special purposes zone — S-1.

Q. Will zoning result in a change in East Stroudsburg as it is now?

A. No. This proposed ordinance can in no way affect existing private dwellings or any commercial endeavor. It is designed to promote the beneficial use of the unoccupied land.

Q. Will zoning laws require permits for alterations?

A. Yes and no. If a citizen wishes to build a porch or alter a room in a house no permit is needed. If a major alteration is made then a permit will be needed and in most instances will only cost $2.

Q. If I build a new home, is there a chance for a factory, gas station or junkyard to move next door?

A. No.

Comfort, silence and luxury to challenge any car from anywhere

"This is a low-priced car." "This is a low-priced car." "This is a . . ." Better keep reminding yourself when you settle back in the roomy, superbly trimmed comfort of the '63 Chevrolet. Say it again of that trim, tight, gleaming Body by Fisher, cradled by 4 husky coil springs, cushioned and insulated in hundreds of places. And its great pick of power plants . . . brand-new Turbo-Thrift Six or any of six improved V8's. And refinements an expensive car might boast about, like a new flush-and-dry system to clean corrosive elements from the rocker panels . . . new self-adjusting brakes and a longer lasting exhaust system . . . new Delcotron generator to maintain electrical reserve power and longer battery life. There's a lot more to keep this '63 Chevrolet running and looking like new far longer. Yet it's a low-priced car? You bet! Why not let your Chevrolet dealer prove it?

Snyder Via Union Aides Say Dr. Koehler In Error

GERALD A. Snyder, Republican candidate for Monroe County's seat in the State House of Representatives, yesterday issued a statement in which he said Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of East Stroudsburg State College, was in error in a statement concerning an employees' union at the college.

Snyder's statement was signed by Adaline E. Moses, secretary, and approved by Robert Woolver, president of the local State, County and Municipal Employees Union, AFL-CIO.

The text of Snyder's statement: "PREVIOUS to Dr. Koehler's assumption of the college presidency, a fully chartered local of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, operated on campus—organizer, Mr. Calahan, and charter dated in 1955. Thus, a year BEFORE Dr. Koehler became president, our union negotiated grievances with the acting president, Dr. Theodore Moore, with whom relations were on a friendly basis.

"Furthermore, Dr. Koehler again errs inasmuch as Gov. Leader himself issued an executive board order granting all state employees the right to organize WITHOUT discrimination. Since the governor himself had already approved and sanctioned that state workers could have union representation regardless of number (order still in effect) no majority or election is necessary for a union of any state employees.

"The statement that the union was never able to secure majority membership at the college is incompetent since shortly after he became president, our membership was in great majority, being a ratio of 70 out of a possible 90 members.

Larceny Charges Dismissed

LARCENY charges against an East Stroudsburg girl and three men were dismissed at a hearing before Harold D. Larison, East Stroudsburg justice of the peace, yesterday.

The four, identified as Shirley LaBar, 18, of 12 Day St.; Jack Helman, 24, of 105 King St., and Earl A. Kresge, 20, and Raymond Kresge, 19, both of the rear of 55 Brown St., all of East Stroudsburg, pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct charges and were fined $10 and costs each.

They were arrested at 1:50 a.m. yesterday by East Stroudsburg police who said they were stealing gasoline from the B. E. Weber garage at 387 N. Courtland St.

They were held in Stroudsburg's borough lockup pending the hearing. Charges against a 17-year-old boy arrested with them were dismissed.

Candidates To Be Divided

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Democratic statewide candidates will be divided among Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh for election night.

The Democratic State Committee here announced Wednesday that U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, who is seeking reelection, and gubernatorial candidate Richardson Dilworth will be in Philadelphia.

State Rep. Stephen McCann, candidate for lieutenant governor, and Justice Earl S. Keim, who is seeking a full 21-year term on the state Supreme Court, will be in Pittsburgh.

Internal Affairs Secretary Genevieve Blatt, also seeking reelection, will be at state headquarters here, as will state Chairman Otis B. Morse.

Demo Victory In Philly Seen

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A big Democratic victory in Philadelphia in next Tuesday's election was predicted Wednesday by Mayor James H. J. Tate. The Democrats two years ago, had a 331,000 majority and in 1959 the margin was over 212,000. The mayor didn't say what he expected this year's margin to be.

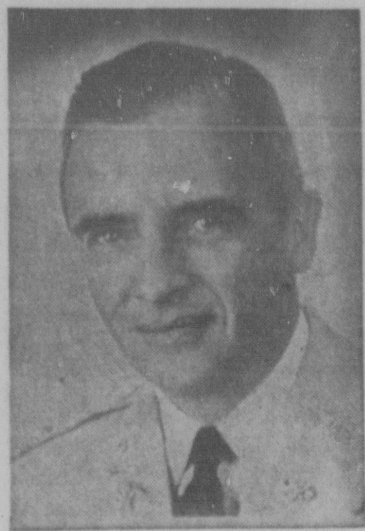

Youths Set Off Bomb

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Three youths were hunted by police yesterday for setting off a gasoline bomb yesterday in front of a Jewish temple and wounding two young girls with shrapnel blasts. The girls, Lucia Levy, 13, and Alicia Elbert, 11, were not seriously hurt. Synagogues and Jewish centers have been guarded by police because of several terrorist acts during recent months.

Army Depot Commander To Find Poconos To Liking

COL. DAYTON W. Eddy, who became Tobyhanna Army Depot's eighth commanding officer today, will find the Poconos to his liking. His favorite sports and hunting and skiing.

In an active Army career that began at Fort Ord, Calif., on Nov. 18, 1940, Colonel Eddy has not always served in areas where he could, time allowing, indulge in one or both of these sports.

Born in Vineyard Haven, Mass., on July 23, 1915, the new commander is a graduate of the Tisbury High School in his home town, and holds a degree in electrical engineering from the University of Vermont.

Prior to his Army service, he worked for three years as a field engineer with the Western Union Telegraph Company in San Francisco.

Infantry Reservist

An infantry reservist since 1935, Colonel Eddy's first active duty assignment was with the 7th Infantry Division. From November 1941 to April 1946 he served in Australia, New Guinea, the Philippines and Japan.

Transferring to the Signal Corps in 1947, he spent several years in the office of the Chief Signal Officer, Washington, D. C., as assistant chief of Army communications.

His other assignments include: 1951—Armed Forces Staff College, Norfolk, Va.; March 1952 to March 1954—Signal Officer, U. S. Army, Alaska; April 1954 to June 1955—Director, Enlisted Department, The Signal School, Fort Monmouth, N. J.; July 1955 to August 1956—Executive to the Chief Signal Officer; September 1956 to June 1959—Industrial College of the Armed Forces, Washington, D. C., and July 1959 to July 1962—Headquarters U. S. Army Communications Zone, Europe.

Much Decorated

A much-decorated soldier, Colonel Eddy has been awarded the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star, Army Commendation Ribbon, Asiatic Pacific Ribbon with five battle stars, Philippine Defense and Liberation and Japan Occupation ribbons.

He is married to the former Jane Johnston, of Duluth, Minn. They have two daughters, Dana, 14, and Janet, nine, and a son, Jay, seven.

Growing Trend In Politics

"SPLITTING the ticket" in elections is a growing trend in American politics.

In times past, the vast majority of citizens voted "straight Democratic" or "straight Republican" progressive, socialist or what have you.

Today, many factors have combined to lead people to "vote for the man" rather than the party. These include a higher standard of education, swifter and more efficient means of communication (such as television), and consequently more reliance on individual choice rather than the word of the political leaders in a district.

To "split your ticket" after you have entered the booth and closed the curtain — pull down the lever over the name of the candidate of the party for whom you wish to vote.

When you pull down the lever,

Johnson Prints Selected

THE Everhart Museum in Scranton has selected two prints created by George Johnson, associate professor of Art at East Stroudsburg State College, to be exhibited in the 5th Regional Exhibition held at the museum. The exhibit will show from October 28 through November 18.

Donald A. Winer, director of the exhibit, stated that "the Fifth Regional Art Exhibition held at the Everhart Museum, is presented as a cross section of the work being done in Northeastern Pennsylvania and adjacent areas of New York and New Jersey. The 72 works selected by the jurors from some 300 entries are widely varied in technique and subject."

Jurors for the exhibition were Chalm Gross, sculptor; Robert H. Luck, head of the Special Programs Department of the American Federation of Arts; and Maynard Walker, director of the Maynard Walker Gallery in New York City.

PM Play Slated For Nov. 9-10

SWIFTWATER — "The Man Who Came to Dinner", the Broadway hit comedy by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman will be presented as the Junior - Senior Play at the Pocono Mountain Joint High School Nov. 9 and 10.

The play, presented by special dramatists' permission, is under the direction of A. C. Caprioli, who directed last year's successful production of "Teahouse of the August Moon".

The play has been given great student support and all indications point to a sell-out. Tickets may be obtained from any junior at the Pocono Mountain Joint High School.

UN Day Topped By Special Meal

THE celebration of United Nations Day ended in the dining hall of East Stroudsburg State College with a resume of the days' activities as listed by Dr. Kurt Wimer, special coordinator for the festivities.

In addition to a United Nations menu served by Celeste Rossi in the dining hall, a showcase display was shown in the Kemp library.

Programs were presented to the Kiwanis Club and to local High Schools.

The program featured Dr. Gerhart Malley of the Foreign Policy Institute in Philadelphia and foreign exchange students who are on the campus of East Stroudsburg State College.

Also taking part were Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, the college president, and Mayor Thomas Kistler of East Stroudsburg.

Area Lass Youngest Entry In State 4-H Horse Show

MEISERTOWN — When Susie McCool competes in the State 4-H Horse Show at Harrisburg on November 9, she will probably be the youngest girl taking part in the State event!

Susie, who just squeaked under the minimum age requirement for competition when she entered the Carbon County Fair District 9 4-H Roundup, and won, is ten years old. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom McCool.

Susie and Jumpin' Jack make quite a pair as they perform in English riding events. She is just over four feet high, and Jack stands 16 hands high. But they are one, a picture in motion, as they go through their paces!

The local miss is the first from the area to enter State competition in the junior classification. And she will be at least among the youngest, if not the youngest, participating in the event at Harrisburg.

She qualified for district competition by placing second in horsemanship and open jumping at the West End Fair. She then went on to Leighton for the Carbon County event, where she gave such a perfect performance that the judges admittedly couldn't take their eyes from her.

Fifth Grader
A fifth grader at Pocono Mountain Joint School, she was trained to her present fine form by Flo Lininger, of Hill Meadow Stables, Stroudsburg, Pa., an accomplished horsewoman, smiles when she discusses Susie, whom she considers an excellent pupil. She recalls the time she was giving instruction in an intricate maneuver, when Susie peered up at Jumpin' Jack and said, "I sure hope you're listening, because I can't figure it out!"

Susie's collection of trophies for riding is growing. She has an open jumping trophy from the Pocono Rough Riders, in addition to the ones already mentioned.

Not content to be the youngest English rider in the area to reach State-wide competition, Susie is probably the youngest student pilot. She takes flying lessons at Hamlen Airport, in East Stroudsburg. An expert shot, as are all of the McCool offspring, Susie gives exhibitions on the McCool Range at Meisertown.

YOUNG HORSEWOMAN—Susan McCool will represent the area in the State 4-H Horse Show at Harrisburg.

Mary Scranton Campaigns For Husband At Tea Here

Mary Chamberlain Scranton may consider herself a basically shy person but there is no trace of shyness when she is talking about what she calls her "favorite subject", her husband William Scranton, Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania.

In a swift-paced talk at the tea in her honor yesterday afternoon at the Penn-Stroud Hotel by the Monroe Council of Republican Women, Mrs. Scranton summarized the qualities which she believes qualify him for the post. In this she was speaking of a man she has known since her own preschool days, and began with stories of their close family life. The Scrantons have four children ranging from Susan 17; through Bill, 14; Joe, 12 to Peter, 8.

"Only Bill Scranton's deep desire to be of service to his state and to serve his people," persuaded him to sacrifice family times together for public service, she said.

"Growing up in Scranton, he gained through his family not only a love for his community but a feeling of responsibility to it so that after his graduation from law school he returned to the community where 45,000 jobs had been lost by the decline of anthracite mining," she said, pointing out that he had been able through the Scranton plan, better known as "Operation Bootstrap" to revive failing businesses, to build new plants through bond issues and gifts and sell the idea of Scranton to new industries.

"Bill has had 15 years working on the problems of unemployment," she said.

His work in the State Department made him realize the importance of the legislature.

"What kind of man is Bill Scranton?" she asked and answered: "He is an independent man. He listens to all sides and then makes up his own mind."

"He is an able man," she added quoting the tribute of Christian Herter when Scranton left his state department post to run for the US House of Representatives: "I never knew a man who could grasp not only the factual details but their implications so quickly."

"He is a fighter," she continued pointing to his campaign for Congress when he overcame a 35,000 Democratic majority to win by 17,000 votes.

"He is an honest man and he is also something else: he is a humble man and these qualities will make him a good Governor, who will serve all the people of this state," she said firmly, appealing for the concentrated effort of all those present during the next few days.

From her talk and from her manner and appearance, it was easy to see why Bill Scranton calls her "his best political asset." She is five feet six inches tall and weighed 128 pounds when the campaign started although she may well have lost some of those pounds in the vigorous campaigning with which she has supplemented her husband's campaign efforts.

However, she showed no signs of fatigue or tension even though the tea yesterday afternoon followed meetings in Philadelphia, Bethlehem and Allentown, and was to be followed by three more meetings last night in Philadelphia.

"I've had a lot of fun and pleasure in campaigning," she insisted "in doing something I believe in and doing it with enthusiasm."

She certainly gave the appearance of enjoying herself. Jean, tanned and with the look of an outdoor woman, Mrs. Scranton wore a tailored blue wool suit with a channel-tie jacket and a-line skirt; and no hat on her simply dressed dark brown hair.

Her sense of humor showed through in her stories of the campaign: when they lost their clothes in a hotel in Montgomery County and roamed the halls in under-shirt or wrapped in a bed-spread looking for help; of the challenge to prove her claim that she could milk a cow in the full glare of television and her relief that after 30 years of not practicing, she really did get milk.

Her favorite story, however, was the times she has been introduced as "the next wife of the Governor."

She said nothing about her own career or the talents which qualify her as a governor's wife. She is a graduate of Smith College where she majored in government. After graduation she was a research analyst in aviation in military intelligence in Washington. She and Bill Scranton were married the July after Pearl Harbor, and during his service in the Air Force, she served as nurse's aid.

She is best known to local residents through her work at Friendship House. It was during her presidency that Friendship House was transformed from a nearly defunct home for old people and very young children to its present usefulness in providing foster home care for emotionally disturbed children, including many from this county.

Mrs. Scranton was introduced by Mrs. Avora Terrill, president of the Monroe County Council, who also introduced members from the Barrett and Mount Pocono Councils; Mary Emma Teeter Garcia, county auditor; Mrs. Jeannette Batory, register and recorder; Mrs. Eli Travis, woman member of the East Stroudsburg Council; Mrs. William Scott, wife of Senator Scott; Mrs. Gerald Snyder, wife of the candidate for Assemblyman; Harold Kresge, campaign chairman; Mrs. Joseph Shukaitis, campaign secretary; and Park Unangst.

Mrs. Scranton spoke on behalf of the Republican state, pointing out the importance of sending people to help put across the program of the Republican party.

The women from the Monroe Council went all out on their tea arrangements, with Mrs. Helen Hansen as chairman; Mrs. Edward Kenney presenting the floral centerpiece; and Mrs. Alphonse Meyers and Mrs. Vernon Ellenberger pouring.

Other members of the committee were Mrs. Clifford Heller, Mrs. Alexander Koobanoff, Mrs. Mida A. Taylor, Mrs. C. W. Dupee, Mrs. Carl Adelman Sr., Mrs. William Gorman, Mrs. Fred Davis, Mrs. Eli Travis and Mrs. John Gebby.

Original Masks Mark Dinner Of Soroptimists

Masks made by Violet Clark Eddy set the Halloween motif for the October dinner meeting of the Soroptimist club of Monroe County at the Penn-Stroud Hotel with a large attendance. The program, arranged by Elsie Logan, was a "let's get to know each other better" program.

Each member gave some of the highlights of her own career. President Stella Shade announced a combined business and dinner meeting to be held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on Nov. 8 at 6:30 p. m.

Marguerite Clarkson, Lulu Harvey, Betty Noack and President Stella Shade attended the North Atlantic Regional Conference in Binghamton, N. Y.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

It may have been imagination but the members of the Republican Council seemed to look a little startled when Mary Scranton thanked them "for the nicest present anyone could ever give me."

The only present they had given her was their presence, in best bib and tucker, on a very very rainy day.

What she was referring to was the presence of her minister, Dr. Pete Emmons, pastor emeritus of her Scranton church, and his wife, who are both among the most ardent admirers of the whole Scranton family.

Speaking of the whole Scranton family, reminds me of Bill Scranton's mother, Mrs. Worthington Scranton, whom I met often during my early days of trip through the area by Joseph Clark—not, I'm sure, the Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate since this was quite a young man whose mother accompanied Mrs. Scranton.

Change Meeting Place

The meeting of the Monroe County Garden Club executive board this afternoon at 2:15 has been changed from the YMCA to the home of Mrs. Russell Harmon, LaBar's Rhododendron Nursery.

Wells-Custred

(Joe Gottchalk)

Miss Linda Shick Bride Of Michael T. Bridge

Miss Linda A. Shick, of Woodland Road, Mount Pocono, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Shick, was married on Sept. 15 to Michael T. Bridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bridge, of Canadensis.

Rev. Oliver Dalaba performed the double ring ceremony in the Kokee Chapel, Paradise Valley.

Mrs. Edwin Beseker played a selection of organ melodies prior to the ceremony and accompanied Miss Kathleen Williams who sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and "The Lord's Prayer." During the ceremony, she sang "Savior Like a Shepherd Lead Us."

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a short white gown of Chantilly lace over satin with a square scalloped neckline and short sleeves. A band of French net underlined with satin encircled the waist and formed an obi bow at the back. The bell-shaped skirt was scalloped at the hem. A bouffant veil was attached to a crown of pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a cascade spray of stephanotis and ivy on a white ribbon.

Miss Alberta Bridge, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of pink nylon underlined with satin. She wore a matching crown headpiece and carried a semi-cascade bouquet of pink carnations.

George Wescott, Cresco, served as best man. Ushers were Randy Brown, East Stroudsburg, and Willard Costanzo, Swiftwater. Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Norway House, Grange Road, Mount Pocono. A tiered wedding cake formed the centerpiece for the bride's table.

For a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Mrs. Bridge wore a light green jersey dress with brown accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Barrett High School and attended East Stroudsburg State College. She is now employed at Business Supplies Corp., Canadensis.

Mr. Bridge is a graduate of Barrett High School and is a senior at the Pennsylvania State University.

Anyway, all the women were anxious to see he got his full share of sandwiches and cookies, which were cheering to the rest of us, too, on a day that seemed made for tea and candlelight, congenial company and maybe a bit of bridge.

Dorsey Library Holds Music To Listen, Dance To

The Tommy Dorsey orchestra under the direction of Sam Donahue, carrying a crew of 15, will play at the Pocono Catholic Missions school auditorium on Tuesday, Nov. 6.

"One of the big reasons for Tommy Dorsey's success," Donahue told Norb Ryan, chairman "was his ability to give dancers what they want."

In a long distance call to Ryan, Donahue said: "We feel when we play an engagement that we have an obligation to make the evening as pleasant and entertaining as possible for the guests. The only way we can do this is by giving our guests the music they want to hear and dance to. This we are able to do by virtue of the fact that Tommy's ability to pick the right tunes for his library and supervise the arrangements was a sixth sense of knowing what the public wanted. This is the library we still use today."

"Well, that's a new way to dress 'em," said Chet Miller's wife, Betty, as she walked into our Children's department and watched Marge Ace remove a little boy's arms so she could fit him into a red shirt.

"If you think so," I said, "you should have seen Fran Meredith putting socks on one a little while ago." Fran had had the headless mannequin standing on its neck, as he fastened the socks in place with scotch tape.

Strange as all this may seem, I dare say there are few mothers who haven't wished they could do just about the same thing when they were trying to dress active little boys and girls. Particularly during the snow suit season!

"Snow suit season!" Doesn't that phrase make you snuggle up inwardly and go, "Brrrrrr!" It is really upon us, I fear, and for the small child we have a variety of snow suit styles and colors that are sure to please every taste. My own urge for something warm and beautiful, drew me into our Wyckoff coat department where I discovered the most wondrously beautiful clutch coat ever of pale beige Grandura with a very wide collar of fox fur. This collar can be worn separately over suits and basics. The price was $165.00. I tried it on . . . I drooled like a wolf . . . and hung it back upon the rack. Maybe next year!—right now my old black coat, furless and untrimmed, is hanging in the closet in a shiny, new, dry cleaner's bag!

My travels today produced two items ideally suited to the stuffing of Christmas stockings: in the Gift department I found figurines of little girls (maybe five inches high) dressed in nightgowns. One carries a candle, another cradles a teddy bear in her arm, and the third holds a pillow. They are precious, and only 69c.

In the cosmetics department I discovered the tapered Lady Eversharp razor in its own plastic case, complete with a full container of blades. These are 1.95 complete, and come in White, Pink, or Blue. I have an electric razor at home in an initialed leather case. It is my pride and joy. It was a gift, and is the epitome of safety and elegance. But for quick, in-between shaves and for traveling, when every ounce of weight must be considered, these Lady Eversharps are grand. What's more, one need never touch the blade, so they are as dainty and safe as any woman could desire.

Cora Albertson of our lingerie department is one of our most efficient buyers. If you doubt it, just watch the rapid turnover of merchandise in her department! That's why it seems so impossible that THIS should have happened to her.

It seems Cora mailed me a card and handkerchief when I was in the hospital last August, and just the other day they came back to her. She had addressed it correctly, but there was no name on the envelope, and the hospital didn't know to what patient it had been sent.

Of course, I can't blame Cora for having her mind on something other than me . . . for just about the time she mailed the card she was busy selecting the absolutely stunning Evelyn Pearson housecoats that are crowding our racks. But more about them tomorrow.

Hotels Group May Be Renamed

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Pennsylvania Hotels Association will consider a resolution to change its name when it meets at its annual convention Nov. 16-18 in Pittsburgh.

Melvin J. Freeman, executive secretary, said the delegates will consider a resolution to change the organization's name to the Pennsylvania Hotel-Motor Inn Association.

The group also is expected to take a stand on legislation to liberalize Pennsylvania's so-called Sunday Blue Laws to permit hotels generally to serve alcoholic beverages on Sunday.

The 1961 legislature authorized hotels in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh to sell strong drinks between 1 and 10 p. m. on Sunday, provided 55 per cent of income is derived from the sale of food.

L. Gardner Moore, proprietor of Bedford Springs Hotel, is unopposed for re-election as president of the association for his third term.

MEET THE REAL FRANCIS WALTER

The telegram shown here was sent at taxpayers' expense to Admiral Ben Morrell of the Americans for Constitutional Action. It will give you an idea of the type of man Walter really is and how he is trying to SMEAR Woody Horn.

THE TRUTH: The Americans for Constitutional Action has not contributed a man, a woman or a penny to Horn's campaign against Walter. This organization is supported by such great Americans as the Honorable Charles Edison, former Democratic Governor of New Jersey; Edgar N. Eisenhower, Brother of the former President; Loyd Wright, former President, American Bar Association; and the Honorable Herbert Hoover, 31st President of the United States.

SOME MORE TRUTH: Admiral Morrell also reported that Walter's voting record "has been carefully evaluated and in the past 6 years, he has voted 70% of the time against Sound Money; 70% of the time against Self-Government; 58% of the time against Private Ownership; 71% of the time against Individual Liberty and 100% of the time against National Sovereignty."

This means Walter votes for and supports foreign aid to build up steel mills, depriving our workers of jobs; farm legislation that increases the price of groceries; your tax dollars for Communist countries; and cheap oil imports to compete with Pennsylvania coal.

THIS ORGANIZATION ENDORSED WOODY HORN FOR CONGRESS.

They endorsed Horn because they agree with him on these points:

- No foreign aid for communist dominated countries.
- Consolidation of defense dept. purchasing.
- No farm subsidies that increase food prices.
- Tight controls on tax monies given to other nations.
- No deficit spending. We need a balanced budget.
- Restore balance of power in executive, judicial and legislative branches of government.
- Stop the gold reserve drain.

Winter Deals Are Stoneham's Meat

By FRANK ECK
(AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor)

EVER SINCE 1958, when big league baseball moved to California, Horace Stoneham has been regarded as the man who latched onto Walter O'Malley's coat tails.

It was O'Malley, as Brooklyn Dodger president, who sold Stoneham, as president of the New York Giants, on baseball in the west.

Since the San Francisco Giants beat the Los Angeles Dodgers in a three-game National League pennant playoff and took the Yankees down to the last out in the World Series, baseball men no longer refer to the Giant boss as "Good Old Horace."

Some officials laughed at Stoneham because he told his managers to play. As long as his managers played "his boys," managers held their jobs. When he tired of Bill Rigney he made Tom (Clancy) Sheehan, former detective and scout, his manager.

The laughter was greater than ever over that move.

Stoneham has no general manager for he makes all deals himself.

But two years ago when Stoneham named Alvin Dark his manager the laughter subsided. Baseball men now take the Giant boss as a sound and serious man who knows how to deal.

Congrats In Order

At the winter meetings to be held Nov. 26-28 in Rochester, N. Y., he will shake more hands than anyone, and accept congratulations humbly. For it has been at these meetings over the last four years that Stoneham was able to put together the team that looked so great in the World Series, even in losing.

Here are Stoneham's deals made at the last four winter meetings:

1958 at Washington—Obtained Jack Sanford from the Phils for Ruben Gomez and Valmy Thomas. (Sanford won 24 games last season and battled series Ace Terry in three tight series games).

1959 at St. Petersburg—Obtained Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes from Baltimore for Jackie Brandt, Gordon Jones and Roger McCardell. (O'Dell won 19 this year and led the Giants in innings pitched with 281).

1960 at Louisville—Obtained Harvey Kuenn from Cleveland for Johnny Antonelli and Willie Kirkland. (Kuenn hit .304 in 130 games this year).

Pierce, Larsen

1961 at Tampa—Obtained Billy Pierce and Don Larsen from the White Sox for Ed Fisher, Dom Zanni and Bob Farley.

(Pierce won 16 games this year, including a shutout in the playoff opener, plus a big win to force the World Series to seven games. Larsen finished 24 games in 48 relief efforts and picked up a Series win).

Stoneham has made other deals, such as getting catcher Ed Bailey from Cincinnati and pitcher Stu Miller from St. Louis. But he seems to have a penchant for operating best at the winter meetings.

Don't be surprised if Stoneham comes up with Bill Monbouquette, who tossed a no-hitter this year, and second baseman Chuck Schilling of the Boston Red Sox. Reports are that slugging first baseman Orlando Cepeda may go in the deal.

NCAA Terminates Two Probations

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Council of the National Collegiate Athletic Association terminated Tuesday night the probationary periods of the University of Kansas and East Tennessee State College, restoring both to full rights and privileges of the association.

Kansas had been placed on probation two years ago for two violations of NCAA rules, involving basketball star Wilt Chamberlain and football player Bert Coan. East Tennessee State, of Johnson City, Tenn., had been placed on one year's probation for violations of basketball tryout and recruiting rules.

No Extension

Both probations were terminated on schedule with the full terms having expired and a review of both cases by the NCAA Committee.

WIBC Meeting

A W. I. B. C. meeting will be held at the Elks Home, Washington St., East Stroudsburg, tonight at 8 p. m. instead of Nov. 1, as previously scheduled. Tournament plans will be made at this time.

All bowlers are asked to attend.

tee on infractions having determined that no extension was in order.

Kansas had been barred for the first year of the two-year period from post-season football games and the NCAA football television programs for violations that included excessive entertainment provided Coan and an automobile given to Chamberlain, 7-foot-1 former basketball All-America who now holds all scoring records in the professional National Basketball Association.

Cites Recruiting

The case also involved the recruiting of three student athletes from other institutions without proper notification to the athletic directors of the other schools.

East Tennessee State's probationary period of one year had provided no further penalties concerning post-season competition or television programs.

Walter Byers, Executive Director of the NCAA, said the 18-member council — now in the second day of its annual three-day fall meeting here—still had under consideration additional reports from the infractions committee. It was indicated that further infractions announcements could be expected Wednesday.

Injuries Hurting Lehigh

BETHLEHEM — A sudden rash of injuries and the psychological impact of a three-game losing streak, coupled with the prospect of a formidable foe, are some of the handicaps facing Lehigh as the Engineers prepare to meet Colgate on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in Hamilton, N. Y.

The Engineers will be trying to get back in the winning way against the Red Raiders, after successive losses to Bucknell, Rutgers, and Columbia, but Coach Mike Cooley may have to operate without the services of three regulars who were hurt in the latter game. Knee injuries incurred by tackle Charlie Gibson (Verona) and halfback Howard Hopson (Wayne) and a shoulder injury to co-captain Pat Clark (York) make all three questionable starters against Colgate. Clark and Hopson are the team's second and fourth-best rushers, and Gibson has been a standout on both offense and defense.

Colgate "Toughest"

Lehigh coach Mike Cooley calls the Colgate line "the toughest one we will face all season, with both size and mobility."

Eagles Ship Baker For Lack Of Effort

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The slumping Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League have fired 272-pound defensive end John Baker, charging him with not giving maximum effort.

The Eagles yesterday placed Baker on waivers and speculation arose that the Pittsburgh Steelers might claim the 6-6 end. If another NFL club does not claim him for the $100 waiver price, he will be a free agent.

Baker was not immediately available for comment. When a newsmen phoned Baker's hotel and asked for him, his roommate, halfback Tim Brown, said he was en route to Pittsburgh to join Daddy Lipscomb, the Steelers big tackle.

"Lack Of Effort"

"If we are going to lose, we're certainly not going to lose with anybody on the squad who's not giving his best effort," said Nick Skorich. "And we're not going to keep anybody else who is guilty of a lack of effort." Skorich said his decision to dump Baker was based on his performances "over the past few games."

Baker played so poorly in last

Sunday's 31-21 loss to Minnesota, said Skorich, that the coach felt the Eagles were playing with 10 men. It was the Eagles sixth loss

Record Number Of Cars In Race

NAZARETH — A record 135 racing automobiles — greatest number ever invited to participate in speed shows at the Nazareth Fairgrounds — are scheduled to be on hand this Sunday at 2:30 p.m., when the track puts on its biggest competition of 1962.

The invitation list includes: 40 modified - sportsman stock cars, representing the leading tracks along the Atlantic Seaboard, including the National Open champion Frankie Schneider; plus 50 limited sportsman cars from New Jersey and Pennsylvania, plus 45 hobby cars from Eastern Pennsylvania raceways.

The triple-header show, producer Jerry Fried says, will have on hand the best-known automobile race drivers in stock cars since the national championship at Langhorne several weeks ago.

against only one victory.

"He (Baker) had many opportunities when he could have hit the quarterback, but he didn't," said Skorich. The coach referred to Fran Tarkenton who beat the Eagles with his running on roll-outs and passing.

Skorich, who is scanning the waiver lists for a replacement for Baker, meanwhile has Gene Gossage practicing at Baker's left end position.

The Eagles acquired Baker from the Los Angeles Rams last year in a trade for linebacker Bob Pellegrini who later was traded to Washington.

"Got Worse"

Baker, a graduate of North Carolina College who was a starter three of his four years with the Rams, was expected to plug the hole left by the departure of Leo Sugar after the 1961 season.

"He showed signs of doing the job for us in training camp and in the early games, then he got progressively worse," said Skorich.

Meanwhile, Skorich has decided to bench rookie offensive right guard Pete Case in favor of Roy Hord.

He spoke at the policemen's graduation upon their completion of basic and refresher courses at the State Police Academy here.

Two policemen received special citations as top students in the class: Homer G. Orndorf, Lock Haven, and Thomas P. Hanna, McKeesport, each of whom finished with a 93 average for the eight-week course.

Appeals Conviction

Reporters Face Tough Task

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
The business of official distortion, suppression and deletion of news is something with which every newsman has to contend from his first day to his last.

About the best he can do is try to develop a smel for it, produce the true facts if possible, or at least handle his report so that the ultimate blame will lie where it belongs and not involve the integrity of the press. At the same time he must consider the national interest.

In this most portentous of all America's wars since independence, as in all wars, the line is very hard to draw. Arthur Sylvester, Pentagon spokesman, says "News generated by actions of the government as to content and timing are part of the arsenal of weaponry that a president has in the application of military force and related forces to the solution of political problems or to the application of international pressure."

Defending against charges that official reports were misleading on the Cuban crisis prior to the President's official announcement to the nation, Sylvester added: "The results, in my opinion, justified the methods we used."

No Desire To Weaken
The press certainly does not desire to weaken the national arsenal.

But the next time the President cuts short a trip because he has a real cold, how many people will immediately jump into bomb shelters? How much vital news from the Pentagon—how much of all news—will be discounted?

The major question, of course, goes to method and judgment.

During World War II a second-echelon executive of the Office of War Information, upon whom the people were expected to rely for much of their information about the great struggle, told a former Associated Press colleague that Gen. Eisenhower was being brought home for consultation.

It was only a brief time before the scheduled date of the invasion of Africa. Unsuspectingly, the AP man filed a story through editors who could not know that Eisenhower would really be heading in an entirely different direction. The story was quietly quashed by other editors who were in the government's confidence.

as OWI was disappointed at the failure of one of many concerted efforts to obfuscate the enemy about the invasion. Why, some of its men wanted to know, did the AP decline to "cooperate."

Having been responsible, I replied. The answer was that in a time of crisis, even more than at other times, the confidence of the public in its free press was not only the best but almost the only means of general mobilization behind the war effort. If that confidence was damaged, the ability of the government to reach the people or of the people to reach the government was diminished.

In conducting cold war or hot war the government must preserve some secrets, and the free press of the United States, in World War II cooperated to an almost unbelievable extent.

It still intends to cooperate. But few objectives can compete, in the long run, with maintaining not only press integrity, but public faith in that integrity.

To that, the government as well as the press must be committed. The press must be committed.

Romney's Bid Stirs Up Bitter Struggle In Michigan

By GENE SCHROEDER
LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Automaker George Romney's bid to become the first Republican to sit in the governor's chair in 14 years, has stirred up one of the most bitterly waged political struggles in Michigan's history.

Romney, 55, former president of American Motors, is trying to unseat Gov. John B. Swainson, 37, a legless veteran of World War II who succeeded Democrat G. Mennen Williams two years ago.

Swainson has the backing of Michigan's powerful AFL-CIO labor organization, which helped keep Williams in office for six consecutive terms.

But Romney aides claim he has gained the support of great number of independent voters who previously voted Democratic because they didn't like the candidates nominated by the GOP. The weather could be a big factor in the outcome. Some neutral observers, while giving a tentative nod to Romney, point out that good weather in heavily Republican rural areas could keep farmers in their fields and away from the polling booths. Conversely, a heavy rainstorm in pro-Democratic Detroit might cut sharply into Swainson's returns. Leadership, Michigan's financial problems and unemployment top the list of issues in the campaign.

Most polls, which showed Romney and Swainson running neck-and-neck a few weeks ago, now give a slight edge to Romney. The impact of the Cuban situation on the Michigan campaign was not clear. Democrats lost the benefits which might have accrued from scheduled appearances of President Kennedy, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and former President Harry Truman. All three canceled out because of the international crisis.

But some Republicans admit privately that Swainson may pick up support from voters impressed with the governor's close ties with Kennedy.

Democrats have pounded away at the contention that Romney was responsible for moving jobs out of Michigan with the transfer of the main American Motors plant to Kenosha, Wis.

But Romney contends that he actually was responsible for creating jobs in the state through his introduction of the compact car on the American market. He said other automakers were forced to produce compacts, opening new operations in Michigan and bringing about more employment.

Poles Author Blockade Joke

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Now that tension has let up in Cuba, Poles are telling a joke about the U.S. blockade.

The captain of the 10,000-ton freighter Bialystok—which is said to have docked in Havana on yesterday—nervously asked Warsaw for instructions as he neared the line of U.S. warships.

"What," he asked, "shall I do if the Americans refuse to believe I am carrying onions?"

As one official tells it, the government wired this reply: "Tell them to smell."

Planes Use Cameras

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Six new U.S. Army planes reportedly are using infra-red cameras to locate Communist installations hidden in Viet Nam's jungles. The planes, Mohawk twin-engine turboprops, are stationed at the coastal town of Nha Trang.

Will Launch Rocket

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—With Soviet help, Indonesia hopes to launch its first space rocket in 1964 for scientific purposes, said Indonesian scientist Hadipoto. He said the Soviet Union also will train a team of Indonesian astronauts.

COATESVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Directors of Lukens Steel Co. have voted a 2 cent a share dividend, same as the last payment, despite a slight drop in profits.

The specialty steel maker reported Wednesday earnings for the 40-week period ended Oct. 6, were $2,333,614, equal to $2.45 a share, compared with $2,578,567 or $2.81 for the similar 1961 period.

The dividend voted was the third this year, making a total of $1.30. The first, of 80 cents, represented heavy earnings in the first quarter period.

Inserting Valves In Hearts Effective

By Alton Blakeslee
Cleveland, Ohio (AP) — Surgery putting new valves into ailing hearts is becoming safer and more effective, heart specialists reported today.

Risks were high when surgeons pioneered the valve replacements, partly because the first patients were seriously ill.

Among 100 persons given new valves during the last two years, one in six have died, but recently the death rate has been cut to one in 20, Dr. Earle B. Kay of Cleveland, told the American Heart Association.

Improved techniques were partly responsible, he said. Valve operations have brought a 90 per cent improvement in patients' health, Dr. Kay said in a joint report with Drs. David Mendelsohn Jr. and Henry A. Zimmerman.

Surgeons are replacing both the aortic valve — regulating blood flow from the heart to the body — and the mitral valve, which controls flow between the two left chambers of the heart. They are using plastics, fabrics, and a metallic cage-like device containing a silicone rubber ball that moves with the blood flow.

Dr. Albert Starr and M. Lowell Edwards of the University of Oregon, who developed the ball-type valve, reported improvements that make it easier to fit the valve as a substitute for the aortic valve.

Made Flexible
Made flexible with a silicone rubber ring in a teflon cloth sleeve, the ball valve has been used in 16 patients and may eliminate the need for a range of valves of different sizes, Dr. Starr and Edwards said in a report with Drs. Colin W. McCord and Herbert E. Griswold.

The improved valve appears to benefit patients more, they said, and there have been no deaths in the last 10 consecutive operations.

Dr. C. Walton Lillehei and associates, of the University of Minnesota, told of 54 valve replacements since 1958, with the first patient still in good health. They reported best results with the ball-type valve.

Valves and valve parts made of teflon and dacron, and shaped like natural valves, tend to stiffen and wear out, they said. But Dr. Kay's team has not found this drawback.

Victory For Council-Manager Proposal

Reading Committee To Appeal Vote Recount

READING, Pa. (AP) — The Reading Defense Committee plans to appeal a vote recount giving victory to a council-manager plan of government.

The defense committee supports the present mayor-council form of government. Results of a special election Sept. 25, showed the proposed change lost by 101 votes out of the 28,183 cast. A recount Tuesday, however, reversed this, giving the council-manager plan a 31-vote margin.

77 Precincts
The city has 77 precincts. The four-man, court-appointed recount board went over the ballots in 41 precinct boxes at the request of the Berks County Citizens Association, which backed the government change, and one box at the request of the defense committee.

In all, 431 ballots were challenged. The Defense Committee attorneys said Wednesday their appeal would be based on a decision which ruled ballots containing a written "yes" or "no" instead of a check mark or "X" were invalid. Paper ballots only were used in the special election, the county commissioners holding it would take too long to set up voting machines.

The Defense Committee indicated the appeal will be filed as soon as the Common Pleas Court certifies the results of the recount.

4 To 7 Councilmen
Under the present government, a mayor and four councilmen are elected to administer the police and fire departments and other municipal agencies. Under the manager set up, seven councilmen would be elected and they, in turn, would delegate their administrative duties to a city manager.

The special election resulted from the recommendation of a City Charter Commission which was created and elected by the voters at last fall's election.

HENRY David Thoreau wrote of Cape Cod, "A man may stand there and put all America behind him."

Lime Field Advice By County Agent

EVEN though many farmers seem to think so, lime treatments on fields don't last forever.

Many fields that were limed a few years ago may need lime right now, reports Monroe County Agent John Withrow.

He points out that increases in crop yields due to liming and liberal use of fertilizer, steps up the removal of plant nutrients from the soil. This is true of all nutrients, including those supplied by limestone.

Limestone supplies the soil with calcium and magnesium and improves effectiveness of other nutrients. Withrow adds, Nitrogen does a better crop feeding job and phosphate is more available to growing plants when the soil has a "good lime situation."

"Profitable production of high quality grain and forage crops depends largely on providing an adequate and balanced supply of nutrients from the soil," says Withrow. "Liming, where needed, should be the first step in building up the soil's nutrient supply."

Withrow recommends fall and winter as ideal times to spread limestone on fields where soil tests show a need. Spreader trucks can get onto fields easier because the ground is firmer. Later on, plowing or deep discing is a good way to work the lime down into the soil.

Where lime is needed, a surface application may help prolong the productivity of pastures and meadows until they are renovated, he says.

Aluminum Aides Indicted

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Six manufacturers of aluminum conductor cable, suppliers of 90 per cent of that product sold in the United States were indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury. They were charged with conspiring to fix prices in violation of the antitrust laws between June, 1958 and August, 1960.

Indicted were Aluminum Co. of America, Pittsburgh; Anaconda Wire and Cable Co., New York; General Cable Corp., Perth Amboy, N. J.; Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Sales, Inc. Oakland, Calif.; Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. New York; and Reynolds Metals Co., Richmond, Va.

The indictment by an 18-member grand jury, sworn in last Nov. 14, by U.S. District Judge Alfred L. Luongo, charged the defendants combined in an illegal conspiracy "to fix, stabilize and maintain uniform prices, terms and conditions for the sale of aluminum conductor cable."

The cable, made in whole or in part of electrical conductor grade aluminum, is used in the transmission or distribution of electricity. It is sometimes coated with a cover made of plastic rubber or other materials.

The indictments stated that in 1959, sales of the cable wire by the different firms exceeded $70 million.

The maximum penalty involved in the charges would be a $50,000 fine for each defendant.

In Pittsburgh, Lawrence Litchfield, president of the Aluminum Co. of America, said, "we are aware of no wrong doing on our part and expect to defend our position fully in court."

Litchfield said the aluminum industry has been so fiercely competitive it is hard to believe there has been any attempt to fix prices with competitors or any other unlawful practice.

Shipley Appeals To Motorists

HARRISBURG (AP) — Traffic Safety Commissioner O. D. Shipley appealed to Pennsylvania motorists Wednesday to start paying closer attention to the state's school bus laws.

"Recent reports indicate that too many drivers are callously endangering the safety of our youngsters by illegally passing halted school buses," Shipley declared.

He added that "extra vigilance by drivers is even more necessary now as the days grow shorter and children will be waiting to board buses during periods of low visibility."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Thursday, November 1

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You may have to work hard to keep this day up to par, and to present yourself at your best. Pick up those loose ends, retouch, finish all projects started.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — If even a minor favor is done you, your appreciation quickly, it may be better relationships. Apply brakes where needed, but look for many good offerings.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Letting matters slide "till later" could prove disastrous in many ways, could even affect earnings. The "later" periods are usually too crowded. Many opportunities here. EMPLOY them.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — System, accuracy, getting a bright start can put this potentially fine day in the bag, over the top. Follow up a dormant talent for unique or unexpected use.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — One of those days when a misstep could mean a real setback. As is where a smart, rightly calculated move could win time, raise your prestige. Pause to think.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Generally you react to a situation brightly. Keep in form now. Mercury's aspect stimulates quick thinking, new ideas, activities. September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Some extraordinary opportunities for the taking. Avoid murky emotions or notions. This day calls for your strong dependability and ambition.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — If you have any complaints, better keep them till after the time and proper place to air them. But do set the record straight wherever you should. Shut down, pause.

November 24 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Don't put all your eggs in one basket. Don't let the barn door AFTER the horse is stolen. Kick your innate common sense. This could be a great day.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — The inexperienced sometimes surprise the knowing because they emphasize those often overlooked gains. DIGNITY and THE ABILITY TO PLEASE (especially when it is sincere).

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Friends, going into benefit configuration, highly favors craftsmanship, school activities, among many other endeavors. Do well with your fine talents.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Similar to Aquarius today. Add a touch of ingenuity here, there. Being on time and consistent will do wonders. No rush; steady does it.

YOU BORN TODAY are a composite of physical and mental vigor, and of sensitivity. Sometimes doubts about your own ability. You thrive under a word of praise, but should recognize that when you most wish it, is usually when you must strive without it. This sign finds no more possibilities in life than it tends to dissipate energies. Battle upon a life's occupation turns to be different avocations as you will. A great period for creative work ahead.

Horn Says Walter Got Foreign Aid

WOODROW A. Horn, Republican Candidate for Congress from the 15th District, last night charged that his opponent, Francis Walter in 1960 received over $8,000 from out-of-state contributors and that 24 men contributed a total of $10,000 to the Walter congressional campaign that year.

Horn made his charges at a meeting of the League of Women Voters held at Moravian College last night.

Horn demanded that Walter explain why, "so few have contributed so much," and, "who these big money men from out of state are."

Horn showed the audience a copy of the official finance report filed by the Campaign Committee for Francis Walter, Charles D. Hogan was listed as Treasurer.

Horn said there was one contribution of $5,000 from a W. P. Draper of New York and insisted that "Walter give the facts on this man and why such a large contribution."

Other contributors named by Horn were: Wm. A. Shea and Peter Brown, also of New York, were listed as giving a joint contribution of $2,500; Hugh Moore of Easton, $500; Irving I. Herz, New York, $200; and Donald Dawson, Washington, $100.

Contributions ranged from $5,000 from Draper down to $5.00 from a Northampton resident. Not counted in the $8,000 out-of-state money was $450 from the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee.

Horn said, "Four out-of-state 'Fat Cats' gave Walter $7,800. This is appalling that a Congressman from this District receives such monies from outside sources. 'I will be glad to publicly meet with Walter and bring all of my finance records if he will do the same. The people might be shocked to find out that the Republican Party is not the party of the big contributor.'"

Horn concluded, "Isn't it time that we stop taking Walter for granted and begin to ask ourselves about this man who supposedly represents us in Washington?"

Gardening For Winter

By George Abraham
PASSION FLOWER: Your passion-flower grew luxuriantly outdoors during the summer months, and now that you've brought it indoors you're probably wondering what care it needs.

If it's tall and gangly you should cut it back somewhat and train it to a bamboo stake. Or you can do what some homeowners prefer — train it to grow on strings around the window. A string, trellis or stake must be provided for best growth.

Indoor Care: Passiflora likes a bright window and a temperature of 65 degrees or so. Plants may be left in the same pot year after year. Merely scrape off the top soil each year and replace with a one-third sand, one-third peat and one-third loam mix.

Be on the lookout for aphids, red spider mites and scale. Syringing the foliage with warm water 2 or 3 times weekly will discourage these pests. Spots on the foliage indicate dry air, dry soil or leaf spot disease. Keep the soil moist and dust the foliage with kaphan to check foliage troubles.

Propagation: Seeds or cuttings. Start new plants in late summer if you want them to bloom during spring or winter months indoors. You can also start seeds now in a sand-peat mixture. Seedlings will bloom when 6 months old.

PARSNIPS: Homegrown parsnips taste twice as good in winter but usually you can get them out of the frozen ground. One way to eliminate this is to dig your parsnips and bury them in a box of soil in fall.

I top your parsnips, place them side by side in a wooden box, then cover with 2 inches of soil. Another row of parsnips is placed over these and covered with soil. The parsnips are placed in the garage where they can freeze solid (freezing makes them taste sweeter).

During the winter months we take out as many parsnips as we need, without trudging through snow. If you have a cool cellar (a rare thing these days) you can store parsnips in an earthen crock and cover with a couple inches of soil. By the way, that galvanized can we mentioned last week is ideal for storing your parsnips.

Sink the can so it's level with soil. Place top on can and cover with leaves plus straw.

SAVE PLANTS: I've been asked if it's possible to save the "spike" (Dracena) and vinca vines which were used in cemetery urns. These items can be used for another year or two and it's a simple matter to save them.

Pot your spike up in a four inch clay pot and grow it in a sun parlor, or even a cellar where there's some light. Keep soil moist enough to prevent plant from drying. The vinca vine can be treated in the same fashion, or you can use it as a foliage plant in the kitchen window. The long, trailing vines can be shortened from time to time to induce bushiness.

Does it pay to try and keep petunias over? I doubt it. Some of our friends grow petunias as a house plant, but usually they become straggly unless you train them to a stick.

OLEANDER: Rose-Bay or Oleander is an old-fashioned item with renewed interest. Normal blooming period is anytime from February to May. After the plant has been brought indoors in fall, most gardeners store them in the cellar until about February for resting. Then the plant is brought into the living room in full sun for blooming.

If yours is tall and leggy in early spring, nip back the old growth and feed liquid plant food. New plants can be started from the tips you cut off, or you can wait until summer and root them in a box of sand. Fruit jars are helpful for rooting.

Don't forget that the oleander has a poisonous juice in the leaves and children should be warned against chewing the foliage. Even the flowers are poisonous.

MOW THE LAWN: Keep your lawn mowed right up until the time snow flies. There's nothing to the theory that grass should grow taller in the fall. In fact tall grass is more apt to mat down and become diseased in winter. Fall's an ideal time to feed and lime your lawn (lime it every 4 years) so it can take advantage of the winter snows and spring rains.

TALL PLANTS: Our tallest sunflower was 14 feet four inches and one of our readers writes to tell us he has the largest cabbage head. His measures 37 inches in circumference and weighs 15 pounds. Can anyone top this?

CRABAPPLES: Sometimes these items will bloom the same year planted. Others won't bloom for 4, 5 or even 6 years. Is there anything you can do to force them into bloom?

No. All crabapples will bloom sooner or later. If you have one which is making fast growth but no flowers, try pruning the shoots back about 1/4 or less now. You'll lose a few blooms but may force it into blooming.

Crabapples have same disease problems apple trees have. Keep the foliage covered with a good fungicide such as sulfur, bordeaux mixture or captan and you'll do a lot to cut down on leaf spot disease and other troubles of crabapples. Rake leaves and fallen fruit and burn immediately.

Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: G. R. of Stroudsburg: "Late last fall after all our chrysanthemums finished blooming, I cut the tops back short and never lost a plant. I'm wondering if I did the right thing, especially when I notice that other people wait until spring to cut their tops back. Which is best?"

I doubt if it makes any difference. You have a neater effect in the garden if the tops are cut back in the fall. The problem of getting garden mums to winter over is what bothers many gardeners. It's not too clear just what does kill the mums each year, but our own experience indicates that poor soil drainage is one important factor. When we dig up the clumps and move them into a small unheated greenhouse for winter rest, the mums come through in fine shape.

If they are left in the open soil (which has some clay in it) many of the plants die in the winter. Where soils are sandy, winterkilling is not too big a problem. Many gardeners have good luck digging up their mums and storing them in a dry spot along the foundation of their home. Others have good luck covering their mums with evergreen boughs.

The Daily Investor

'Big Board' Listings

By William A. Doyle
Q. I am one of the original investors in a company which was organized 15 years ago. I own a reasonable amount of stock in the company and I am a member of its board of directors. The company has prospered and is now a rather big business. I feel the company's stock should be traded on a stock exchange — preferably the New York Stock Exchange. Every time I bring this up, the officers and other directors say, "We're too small." Just how big must a company be for its stock to be traded on the "Big Board?" And how do I arrange for the stock to be traded there?

Reading Soldier Killed In Crash

LUNENBURG, Mass. (AP) — PFC. Gary Seidel, 22, Reading, Pa., was killed yesterday and five other persons, three of them below-GI's at nearby Ft. Devens, were injured when their automobile smashed into a tree. The injured included Pfc. Henry A. Seliga, 20, Windber, Pa.

Awarded Medal

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. James Boyd, president of Copper Range Co. and former director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, has been named to receive the Charles F. Rand Gold Medal Award for distinguished achievement in mining administration. The medal is awarded annually by the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers.

ulations on what was evidently a good investment and also on what was evidently good management on the part of the company's officers and directors — including you.

The New York Stock Exchange (called the "Big Board" because it's the biggest stock exchange) takes the official position that it deals with each "application for listing" on individual merits.

However, the exchange does have general guidelines. Before a company's stock can be listed for trading on the exchange, a company should have earned over $1 million net profit a year "under competitive conditions." It should have tangible net assets of over $8 million or have stock outstanding with total market value of at least $8 million. It should have at least 400,000 shares of common stock outstanding, not counting "concentrated" or family holdings. And it should have more than 1,500 stockholders, not counting "odd-lot" holdings of fewer than 100 shares.

If your company meets those qualifications, go ahead. Apply to have the stock listed for trading. You can't do it on your own hook. The listing applications must be made by the company.

Q. I don't understand why there is often a long delay between the date a company declares a dividend and the date that stockholders receive their dividend checks. In some cases I have waited months. With all the computers, automatic book-keeping and addressing machinery in operation these days, it doesn't make sense. Why the delay?

A. You must understand that dividends are declared by the members of the board of directors of a company. Remember that directors are elected by stockholders. We must assume that the directors do what they believe is best for the company and the stockholders.

When directors declare a dividend they want to be certain (at least they should want to be certain) that the company has the money to pay the dividend (from profits) and has enough money left to continue the company's operations.

Normally, the directors will meet on one day (say, Nov. 1) and declare a dividend to stockholders "of record" on some later date (say, Nov. 29). The dividend will be specified as payable at some still later date (say, Dec. 19).

Many companies pay dividends quarterly — every three months. The directors of some companies make their dividend announcements once a year — declaring payments that won't be made for close to 12 months.

It really shouldn't worry you when there is a time span between the declaration and payment of dividends. What you consider an undue delay can be the result of sound business and financial planning by the company's directors.
